New Course on Korean Religions and Culture

If you are interested in learning about Korean religions and culture, consider enrolling in ALC 231, offered by Professor Hajung Lee in Spring, 2019. This course examines Korean religions and culture through anthropological, sociological, and historical analysis. The course also examines the impacts of Korean religions on social, political, and economic change in contemporary Korean society. Course materials include Korean films, television shows, and other visual materials.
